

A.R.N Growth Charitable Trust

Dignity, health and opportunity for women and communities.

Women's development | Menstrual hygiene

WHO WE ARE

Founded in 2025, A.R.N Growth Charitable Trust is a community-focused organisation working to bring care, opportunity and practical support closer to people. Our focus on women's development and menstrual hygiene sits alongside a wider commitment to education, health and the environment.

OUR PURPOSE

To support dignity and wellbeing through awareness, access and collective action, with a focus on women and girls.

OUR VISION

Communities where education, health and a safe environment are within reach, regardless of circumstance.

HOW WE WORK

Listen first. Understand local needs.

Act together. Bring people, volunteers and partners together.

Stay accountable. Keep community needs at the heart of our work.

Women's development & menstrual hygiene

Our focus is dignity, confidence and participation. Menstrual hygiene is an important part of this commitment: creating space for open conversation and improving access to menstrual products.

COMMUNITY ACTIVITY

Our free sanitary-pad distribution and menstrual-hygiene initiative brings together practical support and awareness. It reflects our commitment to the dignity and wellbeing of women and girls.

PLANNED INITIATIVE

500 sanitary-pad dispensers planned across Bengaluru

Our next project aims to bring pads within easy reach in cafés, government schools and public spaces. See the project overview on page 3.

A pad within reach, when it matters.

We plan to install 500 sanitary-pad dispensers across Bengaluru (Bangalore), bringing menstrual products closer to women and girls in cafés, government schools and accessible public spaces.

500

planned dispensers

~50

~25,000

pads at full stocking

500 dispensers × approximately 50 pads = approximately 25,000 pads

WHY LOCATION MATTERS

A period can begin unexpectedly during a school day or while travelling through the city. When a pad is not close at hand, finding one can mean interrupting the day or asking others for help. The project aims to offer a practical, discreet way to access a pad at the point of need, supporting comfort, dignity and confidence.

ACCESS WHERE DAILY LIFE HAPPENS

Government schools: convenient access for students during the school day.

Cafés: accessible locations for women while away from home.

Public spaces: points of access along everyday routes and community destinations.

MAKING ACCESS DEPENDABLE | PROPOSED APPROACH

Choose accessible sites. Work with hosts on permissions, clear signs and placement that balances easy access with privacy.

Keep dispensers ready. Agree responsibility for stock checks, timely refills, maintenance and nearby disposal arrangements.

Review actual use. Track functioning units, pads dispensed and stock-outs, and use feedback to improve placement and refill schedules.

Help make everyday access possible.

Partner with us to host a dispenser, support installation or supply refills. Contact enquiry@arngct.org to explore participation.

Planning figures supplied by the Trust. Approximately 25,000 pads is one full stocking across all 500 units, not a beneficiary count or annual distribution total. Reach will depend on use and refills.

Care within reach

Community health is part of our wider commitment to wellbeing. Our eye-checkup activity brought a health service into a school setting.
